

Question 4

Can you give me any reason to trust you personally, while [in my opinion] all evidence proves that the RCVS in general is currently untrustworthy and hence the failure of the profession to bother with elections?

Of course you can trust me

Since blowing the whistle on the junk pet-food/vet fraud in 1991 I have staked my integrity on every utterance.

Unpalatable truths must be aired.

I agree that the R<sub>otten</sub>C<sub>allous</sub>V<sub>enal</sub>S<sub>ham</sub> lacks a rudder or moral compass and should be sacked.

Question 6

What responsibility does the RCVS have, and what role should the RCVS take, in protecting veterinary students and animal health from conflicts of interest resulting from external industry interference in veterinary education, investment companies owning practices and vets whose salaries are reliant on commission from sales?

The logo for the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons (RCVS) is displayed on a white rectangular background. It features the letters 'RCVS' in a blue serif font, with a gold shield-shaped emblem containing a white 'V' in the center. To the right of the shield is a vertical gold line, followed by the text 'SETTING VETERINARY STANDARDS' in a blue sans-serif font, arranged in three lines.

VETERINARY STANDARDS

The role of the RCVS

‘We aim to enhance society through improved animal health and welfare. We do this by setting, upholding and advancing the educational, ethical and clinical standards of veterinary surgeons and veterinary nurses.’

Education

‘We quality assure undergraduate veterinary education’

Approving veterinary degrees

'The RCVS has a wide ranging interest in veterinary education and training.

It has a statutory duty to set and monitor the standards of veterinary degrees for registration purposes'
